

ABSTRACT

The present invention concerns a DNA-binding molecule, capable of sequence-specific binding to the minor groove of double-stranded DNA, characterised in that it comprises at least two sequence specific DNA-binding elements, covalently linked to each other in tandem orientation by an amphipathic, flexible linker molecule, at least one of said DNA binding elements being non-proteinaceous.